

WALKABOUT HOUNDS

Dog Training & Behaviour.

When working with your dog try and remember the three D's

Duration Extend the length of time that your dog has to do the exercise for.

Distraction Start off with low level distraction and when your Dog can handle that slowly increases the level of distraction.

Distance Once your dog can handle medium level distraction then you can start to increase distance.

Too much distance too quickly will erode behaviour if your dog is not ready.

If you try and remember these simple guidelines when you are training, your dog will learn patience, focus and will trust in you.

Time, consistency and persistence will make your training work.
